couture allure

Textiles worthy of a turn on the runway are the trademark of studio Fabricteria Maki. Former Tokyo fashion student Maki Yamamoto's fabrics for windows and walls combine made-to-measure tailoring and voluptuous femininity, and her deft handling of color, transparency, and volume result in swaths that seem to bustle and billow even when still.

Standouts from the Fabric Jewels collection include the ruffled Sango; Niwa, with a circular motif; the pleated Gensen; Imouto, adorned with a rose; and Nakae, animated by golden leaves. None are available off-the-rack, however. Like a custom dress shop, the four-year-old label produces pieces on a strictly per-order basis, tweaked to fit the room that wears them. 718-497-1277; fabricteriamaki.com. circle 318
